

Let's Talk! Interprofessional Dialogue at the Intersections of Religion, Diversity, and Healthcare

8:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m., Thursday, March 28, 2013
Faculty of Social Sciences Building, Room 5028
120 University
University of Ottawa

<http://artsites.uottawa.ca/interprofessionaldialogue/>

The one day workshop is mainly structured around two moderated panel discussions with time for audience engagement after each panel. Topics include: public understanding of what it means to be dead and its cultural and religious implications; Aboriginal women's experiences of spirituality; student selection in medicine to care for a diverse population; religious plurality in the context of home health; clinical perspectives on mental illness of refugee populations in Canada; and the role of spirituality in health care for African Canadians. This event is preceded by a professional development workshop for graduate students: Researching Religion: Health Care as Laboratory on Wednesday, March 27, 2013.

Speakers

Sam D. Shemie, MD

Medical Director, Extracorporeal Life Support Program, Montreal Children's Hospital, McGill University Health Centre. Professor, Pediatrics, McGill University. The Bertram Loeb Chair in Organ and Tissue Donation, Faculty of Arts, University of Ottawa.

Roanne Thomas, PhD

Canada Research Chair in Qualitative Health Research with Marginalized Populations and Associate Professor, School of Rehabilitation Sciences, University of Ottawa.

Saleem Razack, MD

Pediatric Intensivist and Associate Professor, Pediatrics, McGill University. Assistant Dean of Admissions, Equity, and Diversity, Faculty of Medicine, McGill University.

Sheryl Reimer-Kirkham, PhD, RN

Professor and Director of the Graduate program, School of Nursing, Trinity Western University in Langley, B.C.

Kevin Pottie, BSc, MD, MCISc, FCFP

Associate Professor, Family Medicine and Epidemiology & Community Medicine, University of Ottawa. Principal Scientist, C.T. Lamont Primary Health Care Research Centre, Elisabeth Bruyère Research Institute, and the Centre for Global Health, Institute of Population Health.

Josephine Etowa, PhD, RN

Associate Professor and Loyer DaSilva Research Chair in Public Health Nursing, Faculty of Health Sciences, University of Ottawa.

Moderator

Louisa Taylor

Senior writer, the Ottawa Citizen.

Organizer: Dr. Rukhsana Ahmed, Department of Communication, with funding from the Religion and Diversity Project and sponsorship from the Loeb Chair and Research Consortium in Organ and Tissue Donation, Faculty of Arts, University of Ottawa.

Attendance is free, but places are limited and registration required. R.S.V.P. at rahmed@uottawa.ca

*The workshop will be held in English.